Eric and Fraser's Story

The Photostory notes are for carers and educators of young adults with learning disabilities. These notes will help you explore the themes of the story as you work through them.

The notes are written to help you create a discussion about the main learning outcomes. Each photo is numbered and has an accompanying series of questions that relates to the story.

Read through the story together first and then reread the story using some of the questions to encourage informal discussion. If you are working with a group of people you may wish to use more of the questions to create debate amongst the group. If you are working one to one it may be wiser to use fewer questions. The questions will not be suitable for everyone – it will depend on the level of the learner's ability.

Learning Outcomes

The learner will understand:

1. being in a relationship means getting to know each other
2. you should ask permission before you touch someone else
3. you can say yes or no to being touched
4. kissing and cuddling should happen in a private place
5. being abusive to someone because they are gay or lesbian is wrong
6. it's Ok to be gay
7. gay people can get support from lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) groups
8. if two men have sex, they should use condoms and lubricant

The following list of feelings might be helpful if the person being supported is not sure how someone might feel in a particular situation.

Angry	Depressed	Joyful	Sexy
